'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

We knew that he was one of these "careful drivers." We got behind him at Twenty-eighth street and Barrett avenue and were forced to follow him to Tenth street and Barrett where we finally were able to get away from him.

He was driving an old model Dodge sedan; a car that was polished until it shined like new. He drove slowly, very slowly, at almost 20 miles an hour.

At every street intersection, in spite of the fact the driver could see to every corner, he would slow down and shift to second gear.

At Macdonald avenue he stopped his car for more than five minutes to allow another car coming four blocks away to pass in front of him.

At the railroad crossing he was stopped because of a fast train passing.

When the taillights of the train went by, the driver went into low, started forward and then stopped—just in time as another fast train dashed by in the opposite direction. Drivers of cars behind him were ten minutes in setting their hearts back into the correct position.

And this "careful" driver took his life in his hands, and dashed forward in spite of the fact that the wig-wag signal was going full blast and the flagman was standing with his red lantern raised.

And these are the careful drivers who wonder why they get hit by another car or train.

FORD BUILDING PLANS SHOW FAITH IN U. S.

The Ford Motor Company's faith in the future of business, and especially in the future of the automobile, is evidenced by the fact that it is spending more than $60,000,000 for new plants and improvements in the United States and foreign branches and associated companies.

The company has nine new plants under way throughout the world, while plans are being formulated for several others not yet announced. Wherever possible the new plants are being erected on sites accessible to both rail and water transportation so that, with each form of transportation supplementing the other, substantial savings will be effected.

Five of the new plants are in the United States, as follows: Long Beach, California—This plant, recently completed to serve southern California, has a capacity of 400 cars a day. Operating at capacity it employs 2,500 men.

Edgewater, New Jersey—The Edgewater plant, one of the company's largest assembly branches, has just been completed to serve New York City and surrounding territory. It has a capacity of 6000 cars a day and employs 6,000 men.

Buffalo, New York—This plant will have a capacity of 400 cars a day and will employ 2,500 men.

Seattle, Washington—A site has been acquired and plans for a plant are being drawn.

A new manufacturing plant being erected at Dagenham, England, sixteen miles from London, to supplant the present works at Manchester, will be completed next year. It will be the largest automobile factory in the world outside the United States. Its capacity will be 200,000 cars a year.

An assembly and manufacturing plant is being built at Cologne, an assembly plant at Antwerp, and a service plant at Stockholm. Two branches—one at Perth, Australia, and one at Port Elizabeth, South Africa—were completed.

FOUR KILLED IN SOUTHERN GALE

MANY HOMES DAMAGED IN BIG BLOW

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22.—UP—A violent wind storm which ripped through southern California today caused the deaths of four persons and caused property damages which ran into thousands of dollars.

Howard Collins, 11, Bakersfield, was killed instantly when he was almost decapitated by a piece of roofing which was torn from a garage near which he was playing. Other deaths attributed to the storm were those of Charles Davis, motorcycle dispatch rider, Richard W. Lyon, 30, Huntington Park and Mrs. J. W. Morrison, Riverside county. All were killed when the blinding wind caused automobile crashes.

Boats Damaged
"Roofs were torn off of houses in about six cities while shipping was slowed up and boats were damaged in San Pedro harbor and around Avalon, Catalina Island."

The fire hazard was great as the wind fanned brush flames into serious conflagrations. Two of the most dangerous fires were burning in Waterman canyon, back of San Bernardino and in Mallard canyon, near Pasadena. A third, started in the Baldwin hills near Los Angeles.

An apartment house was unroofed in Venice, an ocean suburb of Los Angeles. In Alhambra part of the roof of fire station No. 11 was torn away and the rest moved over by heavy blasts of winds.

Large Waves
Mountainous waves pounded against Pacific ocean breakwaters at San Pedro harbor and Long Beach during most of the day. A dozen small boats were washed ashore and badly damaged near San Pedro.

Catalina Island, owned by William Wrigley, Jr., was hard hit. Two fishing boats sank in Avalon harbor and other craft barely rolled onto the beaches.

Buildings lost roofs near the water front and a fishing pier at the St. Catharine hotel was blown into the ocean.

Aviation schedules were disrupted. Government weather men sent up test balloons and learned that the gale was blowing 133 miles per hour at an altitude of 7500 feet.

Over the Ridge route, on the Los Angeles to San Francisco airway, the wind was 105 miles per hour at 9000 feet.

CARDS TAKE 41 TO 0 VICTORY

BERKELEY, Nov. 22.—UP—Stanford's red-pointed horde swarmed over California today to win their annual football game, 41 to 0.

Not only did Stanford roll up five touchdowns—three in the hair-raising third quarter—but for the first time since 1904 California was held scoreless.

The Cardinals finished the half a slender six points ahead, and outplayed.

Cards Take Lead

Though the Cardinal offensive had produced one touchdown in the first quarter, California had the same number of downs and out-gained the Cards from scrimmage.

The Stanford rout began in the third, when a tired California line combined with the entry into the game of Harold Rothert, Stanford fullback, to create a dazzling succession of offensive plays that sent Cardinal backs tumbling three times across the Bear goal line before the gun sounded.

Allowing due credit to a strong Red line that swarmed through the weary Bears from the kickoff of the second half, the dynamo of the Stanford attack was Rothert.

Latin American Problems Will Be Discussed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—UP—Mexico and Cuba are the countries of Latin-America which will be affected most directly by deliberations of the third session of the 71st congress of the United States to convene Dec. 1.

In view of widespread political and economic disturbances in the western hemisphere, it is not improbable that there may be some general discussion of U. S. policies toward Latin-American countries, particularly in reference to the recognition of extra-constitutional governments.

Two matters that affect Mexico are the senate foreign relations committee study of causes and possible remedies for the silver depression and the report of the American section of the International Water Commission.

Cuban political and economic affairs have been studied privately by several senators during the recess with a view to possible legislative proposals. American claims against the Cuban government have also been pressed the senate to take action in behalf of claim-holders.

Inaugural Talk Worries Governor

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 22.—UP—The immediate concern of Oklahoma's governor-elect, William H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, is the framing of a legislative message in "plain, common every day English that farmers and laborer can understand."

Sitting cross-legged in the seclusion of his modest home at Tishomingo, the pioneer Oklahoman, who led his fellow citizens in the framing of a state constitution, a generation ago, made it clear that he has no time now for concerning less pressing than his inaugural message.

Murray, known to his townsmen as "the sage of Tishomingo," will be sworn into office next January by his aged father, Uriah Dow Thomas Murray, who is 94 years old.

"I believe most of the legislators will be able to read my message and get an idea what I want," the future chief executive said with a chuckle. It was one of the humorous thrusts which aided in winning him votes when he campaigned at country crossroads during his recent campaign.

Their slayers, disregarding the dangers of a daylight shooting, opened fire from a big sedan on the small coupe containing Goebel and Bark. They raked it with bullets for two blocks until it swerved off the street and came to a stop on a sidewalk.

Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing, and I will receive you, and will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty." (II Cor. 6:16-18).

The Lesson-Sermon also will include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Because of human ignorance of the divine Principle, Love, the Father of all is represented as a corporeal creator; hence men recognize themselves as merely physical, and are ignorant of man as God's image or reflection and of man's eternal incorporeal existence." ## GRID STARS SHOWN IN FILM

The all-pioneer eleven! You have heard of All-American eleven, but the all-pioneer eleven is perhaps the most unique football team in the history of the gridiron sport.

It is composed of actors and members of the Raoul Walsh's "The Big Trail," Fox drama opening tomorrow at the Fox-California Theater, and while it was impossible to procure real football outfits, the team actually had many real games of the practice order with a second team of former football players gathered from the production unit.

The line-up of the All-Pioneers consisted of Raoul Walsh, captain and quarterback; George Walsh and Ward Bond, halfbacks; Tyrone Power, fullback; Ewing Scott, end; John Wayne, tackle; Ruben Snoted Nose, guard; Martin Zichy, center; Bob Howe, tackle; Pete Morrison, guard and Curt Peters, end.

To offset any thought that this aggregation of pigskin toters were anything else but former experienced football players, the following is from the records:

Raoul Walsh, director of the picture, was a star back at Seton Hall college in New Jersey; Ward Bond was and is yet a tackle for the University of Southern California; George Walsh, brother of Raoul, was a star back at Fordham university in New York; Tyrone Power was a crack Rugby player at Dover college in England; Ewing Scott was quarterback with the California Aggies; John Wayne was a star tackle at the University of Southern California; Ruben Snoted Nose was a linesman with the Haskell Indian eleven; Martin Zichy played center on the Mare Island Navy Yard eleven; Bob Howe was a guard with the Haskell Indian eleven and Pete Morrison played guard with the Baylor university eleven.

WATER SUPPLY SWELLED BY STORMS

The fall of rain and snow at an earlier period than last year indicated an earlier harvest of water, according to an estimate by Frank W. Hanna, chief engineer and general manager of the East Bay Municipal Utility district.

Since November 1st, first twenty inches of snow have fallen at Summit, whereas last year the first important precipitation of rain or snow did not occur until the first week in December. Owing to the dryness of the ground the rains of the past week did not bring about any appreciable runoff, according to Hanna's report. Lake Pardee during the last two weeks has dropped approximately three billion gallons, leaving 22,487 million gallons of water above the outlet tunnel. Inasmuch as this represents 22 months supply for the district and inasmuch as there is now impounded in the local reservoirs approximately ten months supply, Hanna declared the nine east bay cities are in excellent condition as regards their water supply and have nothing to fear for the future. With ordinary precipitation such as was experienced last winter, Lake Pardee will fill to the brim by May 1st, thus creating a new storage of seventy billion gallons. Rainfall at Lake Pardee this season has been approximately two inches and at Upper San Leandro, two and a half inches. The local reservoirs show a decline in storage during the past month with the exception of Upper San Leandro which gained 313 million gallons. This was due to the fact that San Pablo reservoir now contains the largest amount of water in its history and for the present no further water is being deposited there. The Mokelumne pipe line has been carrying 34 million gallons daily by gravity and this water is being lifted by the Walnut Creek pumping plant into Upper San Leandro reservoir which is still 44 feet below the spillway.

The power plant at Pardee reservoir has been in operation and during the last two weeks, 4,230,000 kilowatt hours of electricity were produced. The level in the reservoir was lowered a little more than seven feet which is equal to approximately three billion gallons.

Hanna reported that there have been fewer fires this year on utility district land than for any year during the last quarter century. This is largely due to the close supervision by the fire patrol organization of the district. Recent rains have ended any further menace of fires for this year. Cash receipts at the business offices of the district for the first 15 days of November were $173,490.32. There were 58 applications for new services received. Of this, applications, 27 were in Oakland, 4 for San Leandro, 21 for Berkeley, 1 for Alameda and 5 for Richmond.

3 FACES EAST NOW SHOWING AT FOX

In the characters of two international spies, Constance Bennett and Eric von Stroheim come to the Fox-California Theater today in "Three Faces East" the Warner Brothers and Vitaphone spy mystery melodrama adapted from the best stage play of Anthony Paul Kelly.

Miss Bennett portrays a war nurse in "Three Faces East" who is secretly employed as a spy in both the British and the German Intelligence Service. Von Stroheim plays a hatter similarly leading a double spy life.

The story, adapted for the screen by Oliver H. P. Garrett, depicts their conflict between love and duty and unravels mystifying diplomatic relations between the Allies and the Central Powers during the World War.

The theme plot complicated by a young British soldier, home on leave, played by Anthony Bushell—makes the eternal triangle with Miss Bennett and Eric von Stroheim William Courtenay, Charlotte Walker, Crawford Kent, William Holden, William von Brincken and others have important roles.

Roy del Ruth, who directed "Gold Diggers of Broadway," "Hold Everything" and other successful films directed "Three Faces East." Also on the program is Knute Rockne football series and Rin Tin Tin in "The Lone Defender."

240,000 Girl Scouts To Aid In Thanksgiving

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The old harvest festival of Thanksgiving will this year be celebrated by some two hundred and forty thousand Girl Scouts in the spirit in which its founders conceived it.

Acting in that spirit, the girls will not only give thanks for blessings received but will give freely of their own plenty to the less fortunate, whose plight has been accentuated this year by the business depression.

The poor, the sick and the sad will be the special care of the nine thousand odd troops scattered throughout the country, whose duty and pleasure it will be to find out what such people in their communities need and then discover, somehow, the means of providing it.

Adoption by a troop of an individual or family is one of the favorite ways of performing this community service. Then the girls prepare and deliver a hamper of food. They get the clothes from somebody's closet, clean them and sew them if necessary.

Useful "knick-knacks" for the home or even light articles of furniture are made in the handicraft classes, and here, too, are collected new or are mended old toys for the younger children.

The plays or pageants which usually mark the Girl Scouts' own celebrations of the season, will this year be frequently conspicuous by their absence. These productions are paid for by nickels and dimes accumulated from weekly contributions to the troop treasury.

Collect Money

This year, in some districts, of the larger cities, where a local situation makes it desirable to do so, the girls bring leaves of bread each week in place of nickels and deliver them to nearby churches for distribution to the breadlines or the unemployed. In some cases the troop funds are being saved to provide a Thanksgiving hamper for a family, or to add fruit and candy to the trays of children in hospitals and homes for the crippled.

On Staten Island the girls cooperate with the visiting nurse associations which report to Girl Scout headquarters on the needs of their cases, whether for food, clothes or other comforts.

Clothes Gathered

The girls constitute themselves into foraging parties on the closets the larders or the attics of their friends and acquaintances and turn over their spoils to the associations.

The out-patient departments of city hospitals and children's clinics also supply an outlet for the Thanksgiving spirit of the Girl Scouts. The former need bandages, which the girls can roll, and the latter frequently need escorts for small children whose parents' duties make it difficult for them to leave their homes.

LIGHTS WAR TO BE STAGED BY POLICE

Glaring headlights and defective brakes will be the object of a special drive by the police department, according to announcement by Lieutenant Charles L. Hemphill of the traffic squad, through the East Bay Safety Council. Hemphill said that the beginning of the rainy season increases the hazards of motoring and that his department will carry on a consistent drive during the next few weeks calculated to correct dangerous lights and bad brakes.

Particular attention will be given to wrecks used by high school students to and from school, said Hemphill. "A great many of these use brakes that are of little value in stopping the car and a great number of such machines are operated with only one headlight, glaring headlights and in some cases with no lights at all. There will be a special squad of police detailed to attend to this class of drivers."

Hemphill declared there will be a consistent nightly drive against faulty headlights of all kinds. Where obvious defects exist the car will be tagged and the driver cited to appear in court. During the day the campaign will be carried on against brakes. Machines will be stopped in all parts of the city and their brakes tested. If cars do not stop within the specified distance these drivers will have to appear in court.

"Ample publicity notice is to be given of these campaigns," said Hemphill, "and excuses will not be accepted unless by the judge."

Figures by the safety council show that faulty headlights play a big part in the fatality list after night-fall and that he inability to stop a car quickly causes many serious accidents at all times. It was pointed out that the opening of the rainy season always increases the hazard of the streets and highways and that fatal accidents usually increase during the last month or six weeks of each year.

Ramsey Probasco, president of the safety council, declared it was the hope of his organization that this might be avoided this year through closer cooperation between motorists and pedestrians.

BUICK VISITS SITES OF BARRIER

If Boulder Dam is to be the eighth wonder of the world, the proposed dam or salt water barrier across San Francisco bay should be rated as the world's ninth greatest marvel.

This dam, along with a proposal to hang the world's largest suspension bridge across the Golden Gate and to build the longest and highest bridge in the world between San Francisco and Oakland, has centered the attention of the scientific and the lay minds of all countries upon the bay of San Francisco.

Most unusual of all the suggested structures is the dam across the bay, California, despite its fame as the home of fruits and flowers, is a semi-arid state. For a generation, men have studied methods of conserving for man's use the uncounted millions of gallons of water which waste every winter into the Pacific ocean from the high Sierras. Along with this problem of the conservation of water, there has run the problem of keeping the salt waters of the ocean from encroaching into the rich agricultural section known as the delta of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers. The dam, which is known as the salt water barrier, would, it is claimed, kill two birds with one stone—create a new artificial lake of fresh water for the use of both agriculture and industry, and at the same time prevent the incursion of salt water. H. E. Loomis, Pacific regional manager of Buick Motor company, sent a Buick eight to get data on the barrier sites recently, according to C. C. Kratzer, local Buick dealer.

Early dreamers as far back as the eighties envisioned a barrier across the world famous Golden Gate, with ships entering through locks. Construction of a barrier at this point is no doubt feasible as an engineering achievement, but to make San Francisco bay a fresh water lake would require more water than has ever been known to flow down from the mountains. Consequently, modern engineers have devoted themselves to studying sites farther north. Years of engineering research have been spent and three feasible sites have been surveyed at the north end of the bay—one at Point San Pablo just north of Richmond, and the others at Army Point and Dillon Point in Carquinez straits. All three are under consideration by the Federal-State Water commission, which is reviewing the water situation throughout California. At the meeting of the state legislature developed and irrigation was brought into general use there was a much worked out by which, it is believed, larger year-round flow in the Sacramento than at present. This flow, pushing against the tides from the bay kept the salt water out and fresh water was enjoyed the year-around even in Carquinez straits.

Buick Visits Sites

THE AERIAL DRAWING shows the proposed sites for a salt water barrier which will eliminate the menace of salt water damage to the fertile river bottom lands in the San Joaquin and Sacramento river country. The proposed barrier would make a fresh water lake out of San Pablo bay, an arm of San Francisco bay, and would be one of the outstanding engineering feats of the age. The aerial photograph shows one of the barrier sites. The car is a Buick eight sedan, sent out to secure data on the barrier plans.

one of these sites will be selected and steps taken to finance the construction of a barrier.

The Sacramento is the largest river and the San Joaquin the second largest in northern California. The only other stream in the state which exceeds the Sacramento in volume of water is the Colorado upon which world attention is now centering through commencement of construction of the great Boulder Dam. The delta region of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers is only slightly above sea level. In years past below sea level. In years past below sea level. In years past below sea level.

Proponents of the barrier declare that such a structure is the only practical method of solving a problem which now runs into millions of dollars of damage a year.

The barrier would be a low dam designed with locks similar to the ones in use in the Panama Canal through which would pass the great amount of shipping between Sacramento and Stockton and the cities on the lower bay. Gates would be arranged for the passage of the greatest of floods that have ever been known to come down the river. This is necessary because the agriculture of the delta region is carried on entirely behind levees and any sudden increase in the height of water might flood these lands and ruin the delta.

The barrier would outwit nature. Ships from up the country would approach the barrier through a placid lake simplifying navigation. Tere does which now do enormous damage to piling would be non-existent with the barrier because this little marine borer cannot live in fresh water.

The barrier is one of the features of a vast program being considered by northern California for the solution of its water problem. Somewhere in the mountains, probably at Kennett, there will be constructed a huge reservoir to hold back the winter flood waters which heretofore have wasted to the sea. In or near Carquinez straits will be built the salt water barrier. Then a system of lifts and canals will be constructed to carry Sacramento river water from a point near the barrier up-stream approximately 200 miles to the parched area of Tulare county which is now going back to jack rabbits and sage brush because their water supply is exhausted.

These three primary projects together with some smaller developments will run into an investment of more than $130,000,000 and will put California on easy street as far as water is concerned for the next 100 years.

Latest Methods Of Crime War Used In Paris

BERKELEY.—From Paris, home of Arsene Lupin, comes tales of reconstructing the face of a defaced victim and guillotining her murderer.

Of proving that blood had once stained clothing since washed spots.

Of reading an incriminating letter that had been burned to a crisp.

Of a new process by which scientists can tell at a glance whether a pearl is natural, cultivated or artificial.

New methods, along these lines were reported here by Edward O. Heinrichs, "the man who makes murder out," famous criminologist who has just returned from a trip abroad where he studied detection in several capitals.

Heinrichs told of the identification of a young woman who had been murdered and her face then disfigured past recognition by fire. By use of a new process called "moulage casting," he said, a death mask was made and the scars later removed by a sculptor.

The mask was then painted in natural colors and exhibited for weeks. It was recognized and the police trailed the slayer.

Bloodstains in washed clothing can be detected by the use of ultra violet and infra-red rays, Heinrichs said.

The same thing is true of writing paper which has been burned, he reported.

The new process which reveals real, artificial or cultured pearls is French, he said.

NEW CHEVROLET HAILED BY MANY

The announcement of the new Chevrolet six for 1931, has stimulated trade in many lines of business, and is looked upon as an omen of the better times that are coming. That's the consensus of opinion of the many telegrams and letters received by Chevrolet Motor company's regional office in Oakland in the last few days.

"The new car was announced last week, and since that time the regional office has received many messages from dealers, bankers and motor car owners praising the company's move in announcing the car at this time and thus starting the buying season earlier," stated officials of Connell and Shumate, local Chevrolet dealers.

"The new model was announced throughout the country November 15, and since that time thousands have inspected at salesrooms everywhere. Dealers were called into zone headquarters in the key cities up and down the Pacific Coast and the features of the new models explained to them.

"The announcement of the new model has resulted in putting several thousand men to work through out the country. Chevrolet plants started operations on the new models and Fisher Body company factories started building bodies for the new cars in advance of the car manufacturing plants. The nineteen domestic plants of the company are now in operation, and from present indications there will be little letup for some time to come.

"The roominess, speed and power of the new models appealed to motorists everywhere. Dealers throughout the country were kept busy all week demonstrating the car to prospective buyers, and many orders were placed for delivery as soon as possible.

"Among the improvements in the new models are a fully insulated front compartment, easier steering, more durable clutch, smoother and quieter transmission and liberal use of rustless chromium plate on exposed bright parts. Four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers and fully inclosed

Chevrolet Men On West Tour

Timing their arrival in the Pacific coast region with the announcement of the new 1931 Chevrolet officials from headquarters in Detroit, are making a tour of the west, meeting dealers and factory representatives and instructing them in modern sales and service methods.

The party from Detroit entered the Pacific coast region at Great Falls, Montana, where they were met by E. W. Fuhr, Pacific regional manager for Chevrolet and other western officials, who accompanied the party on their tour of the west.

From Los Angeles the party heads east through Arizona, New Mexico and Texas, holding meetings en route, and then returns to the home office in Detroit.

The Chevrolet officials have a complete stage set-up with them. Exports accompany the party with a carload of scenery which is put in place in a theater in the city in which the meeting is to be held. Members of the tour discuss various phases of the automobile business and show the assembled dealers how to operate their establishments more efficiently.

The members of the party include D. E. Ralston, assistant general sales manager of Chevrolet Motor company, W. G. Power, who will speak on sales promotion; R. J. Pearce, service promotion; C. W. Fox, used car; and trucks; L. W. Kiefer, business management; O. A. Moore, W. A. Leach, General Motors Acceptance corporation; T. L. Fortune, Motor Accounting corporation; C. H. Siebritz and P. O. ## Two Felons In Escape Attempt TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 22.—One man under sentence of death and another prisoner at the penitentiary here were caught digging their way to freedom today.

Arthur Cort, 22 the condemned man and Joseph Wyckoff, under a 15 year sentence had dug a hole through an 18-inch stone and concrete wall.

It was believed that Wyckoff, who had the privilege of the recreation yard, obtained instruments for use in the attempted escape.

Big Bill Will Seek Re-Election

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—UP—Mayor "Big Bill" Thompson indicated today that he will run for a fourth term as chief executive of Chicago to guide the city through the 1933 World's fair and back to prosperity.

The mayor's words were not definite, but they served to clarify somewhat the status of the many booms, and tentative drafts developed during the week. Two dozen men, ranging through the roster of politics, finance, philanthropy, and education, have been mentioned as possible candidates.

Thompson made known his intentions at the dedication of the new Roosevelt road bridge over the Chicago river, where he presented himself in public for the first time since he underwent an appendicitis operation.

The dedication gave the mayor an opportunity to again demonstrate his showmanship. Bundled in his collegiate racoon coat, Thompson paraded with bands and accompanying vehicles to the scene of the ceremonies in his big red touring car, resplendent with bunting.

He beamed jovially at the curious onlookers and attending officials while the bands played his campaign pieces—"Big Bill the Builder" and "America First, Last and Always." Factory whistles popped off. Flashlights boomed. Thompson grinned expansively and nibbled at the end of his cigar.

'Friend' Robs, Attacks Man

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 22.—A ferry boat nor the vehicular tube thru which most of the traffic goes between here and the American side was not used by Charles Debecker to cross the river.

Instead Debecker elected to accompany a chance acquaintance across in a rowboat. Instead of pulling for the American side the new acquaintance steered for a shady spot, took $170 from the passenger and threw him overboard.

THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX HAS MANY IMPROVEMENTS

The introduction of the new Chevrolet Six marks the most impressive forward step in Chevrolet's twenty-year record of constant progress and improvement. For this Bigger and Better Six offers new beauty, new luxury, new completeness and new quality—yet it sells at lower prices!

In every curve and sweep of Chevrolet's modern lines—in every detail of its new Fisher bodies, you will see the fine hand of the master designer and the skillful craftsman. And the more closely you inspect it, the more deeply impressed you will be.

The improvements in the new Chevrolet Six begin at the smart new chrome-plated headlamps and extend throughout the entire car. The radiator is deeper. The lines are longer and lower, giving an air of exceptional fleetness and grace. And the interiors of the new Fisher bodies provide a new degree of comfort and luxury; greater roominess; fine quality mohair or broadcloth upholstery; more pleasing interior fittings; and a new, completely equipped instrument panel.

The chassis of the new Chevrolet Six has also been refined and advanced in a number of different ways. The frame is heavier, deeper and stronger than before. There is a smoother operating, long lived clutch; a sturdier front axle; an entirely new steering mechanism; an easier shifting transmission. In fact, every vital feature of the new car has been made better to provide more thorough satisfaction for the owner.

And along with these improvements, Chevrolet offers the smooth performance of a 50-horsepower, six-cylinder motor—four long semi-elliptic springs—four hydraulic shock absorbers—a safety gasoline tank at the rear of the car—and an economy of operation not surpassed by any automobile.

Temper Is No Ground for Divorce, But—

TEMPER, jealousy, extravagance, profanity, sickness, fretfulness and a habit of tantalizing one's husband—Provide no excuse for the husband to desert his wife—So Vice Chancellor Robert H. Ingersoll has just ruled, in a divorce suit at Atlantic City.

Temper, outbursts of passion and jealousy And perseverance in tantalizing a husband Are not crimes, explained the Vice Chancellor, but infirmities. A husband agrees to put up with them. When he takes a wife for better or worse. "A man," the Vice Chancellor sets forth, flatly, "cannot desert his wife because she is extravagant or lazy, or uses coarse language, or is sickly, fretful, or of violent temper, or because she wrecks her temper upon him. And thus makes his life uncomfortable."

Of course, it's all perfectly true, in New York as well as in New Jersey, and in most if not all of these states. And yet, even if temper is no ground for divorce, The good ship of matrimonial happiness can run aground on temper. And be about as completely wrecked as through anything else that can happen to it!

The wife's temper is not always responsible For the shipwreck of the marriage—

The husband's temper doubtless is to blame, quite as often—

To say nothing of the unions of two individuals who both have uncontrolled tempers.

Who both continually "let fly" with words, if not with dishes.

Who fight night and day with their tongues, their antagonistic wills, if with no more tangible weapons.

The pity of it, the hopeless sound and fury and waste of it!

We are no advocate of matrimonial peace at any price—

Nobody, in marriage or out, should allow himself (or herself) to be trampled on!

Furthermore, even when a husband is not a bully, a wife not a tyrant, If the two of them are strong personalities, with minds of their own—

If their nerves are daily exacerbated by the noise and haste and strain Of this world in which most of us live—

If they are tired, overworked, poor— It's human, all too human, for one or both

To explode, occasionally, in a fit of temper.

To stage a few almost inevitable quarrels—

It's too bad, but that's how it is. And, anyhow, it doesn't mean that their marriage is embittered or permanently injured.

But how can two persons, who presumably are in love when they marry—

How can they, either or both, make bad temper a habit, And absolutely destroy their chances of happiness together—

Destroy, in the end, their love? The husband who perpetually snaps and snarls—

Who roars and rages— The wife who continually storms and denounces—

Who nags and whines— Both are offenders against the moral law, even if the divorce laws can't do anything to them.

They are purveyors of the springs of domestic happiness.

For their partners and for the unfortunate children that may be born of the union.

Oh, what is the sense, what is the use of loving your husband or your wife.

If you don't try, honestly and all the time, To be sweet and kind, tender and affectionate and admiring?

Gosh, if you never learned to keep your temper in leash, Can't you at least turn it loose on the world at large.

Instead of using it to hurt the one who loves you?

How long—and how much—do you think even that love will endure?

Temper is no ground for divorce. But it's the best of grounds, at once the explanation and the cause, For alienation of affections!

CONFESSION

Most men think that women are creatures strange, creatures bizarre. With a knowledge of the sex, Ladies never need perplex. Listen: When a lady cries Without redness of the eyes, The dear thing is just a fraud Who would have her way, my lord, When a sweet young thing says "No!" Please don't think that "No!" must go. Eyes will tell if she means "yes"— She can't even have to guess. If she can't recall your name, Let her have her little game. Though you may abhor her lies, —Would you have her otherwise?

A DISH A DAY

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

One of the major problems of planning family meals arises when the adult members are counting calories, and the children, with cavernous appetites, demand wholesome, filling desserts replete with milk and eggs. There can be no compromise, no middle course in such a situation.

The children must have their custard, even if the grown-ups do sit by in suffering resignation. They may have a little fresh fruit, but nothing else.

And you cannot expect children, who have doubtless been foregoing the fruit bowl all afternoon to take any interest in that as a dessert.

As many children will not drink their full quota of a quart of milk per day, often at least half of it has to be given them in the form of custards or puddings. These must be varied in order to retain their appeal, and yet they should not be highly flavored or elaborate.

A delicious dessert for the children, which is very simple to make, but which belies its simplicity in its appealing flavor, is this

BUTTERSCOTCH RICE PUDDING

1/2 cup rice
4 cups milk (or 2 cups evaporated milk and 2 cups water)
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks, beaten
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
4 tablespoons brown sugar (additional)

Wash the rice thoroughly and put in the top of a double boiler with three cups of milk, or half water and half evaporated milk. Cook until rice is tender and liquid is largely absorbed. Melt the butter in a saucepan and add cup of brown sugar. Stir constantly and cook until it bubbles, but do not allow it to scorch. Scald the remaining cup of milk and add to the sugar and butter. Stir constantly and cook until it bubbles. Pour over the egg yolks, stir until blended, and add with salt to the rice. Remove from fire and add vanilla. Pour into buttered baking dish and top with meringue made with egg whites and four tablespoons brown sugar. Bake in a slow oven until the meringue is lightly browned.

Bathing de Luxe

NO Roman lady of antiquity bathed in greater luxury than does today's elegant. The ritual of the modern bath is elaborate to a degree—and delicious. There are the pastel-tinted sunken tub, the fragrant, satiny soap, the bath crystals, the rubbing oil, the rubbing lotion and the body powder—all of a matching scent that is both delicate and lingering.

Call it effete if you care to, but try it and you will come forth with a Queen of Sheba complexion. You will feel smooth and fluid all over and fresh with the irresistible freshness of a ploy.

The ceremony begins with the tubbing, tepid, warm or hot, according to personal preference and the state of your heart. You know, of course, that hot baths are weakening in their effect on the system. At any rate it is fat reducing and sleep inducing and generally excellent—taken now and then—by the strong of heart.

When you have sufficient water in the tub, add a handful of bath crystals or an effervescent bath tablet. This department happens to prefer the latter. There is something tonic about the tingling—or is it tingling?—At any rate it is delightful and the fragrance of effervescent bath salts seems to last longer too.

Did you know, you who "always take a shower" that you can get shower bath salts? They mean a good deal to women who have loved the shower but loved their bath crystals more. Very amusing too, especially those that sizzle when the water strikes them.

Skins that chap easily, skins that grow stiff with cold, more especially goosepimpled skins, simply luxuriate in the exquisitely scented body oils now in the beauty shops. They are not really extravagant, since a little goes such a long, long way and does so much good for the skin and for one's loveliness.

But the oil must be rubbed in until it quite disappears, or else what remains must be wiped away. Otherwise the after effects, as you can well imagine, are not too pleasant. Think of the effect upon undies, for instance. To be sure, the last touch to the ceremony of the bath, the dusting powder, absorbs some of the excess oiliness.

Oily-skinned folk may prefer a rubbing lotion or astringent. A combination of the two, the bath oil and the astringent lotion—after the former has been thoroughly absorbed—is really excellent. But make quite sure they all harmonize in aroma—bath soap, salts, oil, lotion and dusting powder. You know how "terrible" a combination of clashing perfumes is on somebody else.

The Painted Radiator

IF your freshly painted radiators blister and peel when you turn on the heat this fall, don't blame the painter. Even the best of flat paint or enamel may make the radiator look as if it were suffering from the measles if the heat is applied too suddenly. Let the steam or hot water into a freshly painted radiator slowly the first time. This will remove the danger of paint scorching and preserve the radiator finish from cracking. You know how "terrible" a combination of clashing perfumes is on somebody else.

NOW IT CAN BE TOLD

ADRY explanation of the 1930 vote: "We have studied the election results," said a prominent spokesman for the dries, "and they don't mean a thing. As Maine goes, so goes the nation. Maine elected a solid dry ticket in September and the issue was settled then. The vote on Nov. 4 was just an afterthought and should not be included in the results. The only purpose was to give employment to starving election wardens."

It is true that in some minor States like New York, Illinois, Ohio and Massachusetts, the wet cause seemed to make a slight gain, but prohibition in Philadelphia was not the issue. In Illinois they elected a man with pink whiskers to give color to the United States Senate. The dries either stayed at home or voted for Greta Garbo.

"Every right-minded citizen knows this country adopted prohibition in 1917. Moreover, in Philadelphia they weigh the ballots instead of counting them, and every one knows a wet ballot weighs more than a dry one. We are going to ask for a recount as soon as those ballots dry out."

"The 3rd referendum in Rhode Island against prohibition means nothing. It was actually a protest vote against miniature golf. The dries did not suffer any reverses in Connecticut, either, no matter what the wet press tries to make out. When the Connecticut citizens elected a wet college professor as Governor, they were merely giving a vote of confidence to the Yale football team."

"The exaggerated claims of the wets are laughable. When they point to a tremendous wet vote in this country, they are talking tommycock. As soon as the 1930 census figures are published they will show there are 123,000,000 dries in this country and the wet adherents were all out of town."

"Senator Heflin was apparently beaten in Alabama, but I understand they didn't count the dry white Protestant votes. I also had it straight from Mr. Heflin himself that 800,000 jobless Tammanyites were smuggled into Mobile and Birmingham and voted against him in night-hour shifts. The Alabama hospitals are still treating Tammany men for writer's cramp they got from marking fake ballots for Senator Heflin's opponent."

"The DO-X requires twelve motors to keep it flying. We should have to be up in it when it's only going on all six."

"German brewery stock went up when our wet code was announced. But we noticed that United States peepholes shares didn't drop a single point, either."

"You will know that ticket scalpers have been wiped out when they can't sell you anything but standing room tickets."

TWO NEW HATS OF FELT DONE IN THE MOST ADVANCED MANNER

Regarding Sport

THE newer sport hats are distinct innovations. They are made of a felt that is ever so soft—really almost transparent in its feeling and effect. The crowns are shallow and then there are brims—some quite wide and some much narrower. Interesting ones have been designed at a new shop under the patronage of Princess Rospiellos.

Really the whole effect of the hat grows out of its handling and shaping. There is no trimming—no ribbons—no feathers, but the brims are pinched on to the crowns with a tuck at the side or a bit of shirring at the back so that the brim falls down about the face in a veritable frame. The brims are not full. They are flat, but because they are so utterly soft they necessarily ripple a bit just as though they were full.

Now a really new idea appears when the material of the suit or dress—tweed or any of the rough stuffs as well as the smoother ones—is taken and used for a brim facing for these soft, drapable felts. It sounds bulky, but as a matter of fact it is as flat

DUCE DECLARES ITALY IS ON UPGRADE

ROME, Italy, Nov. 22.—UP—Fascist Italy must be strong and healthy to carry out her future program but the nation has no "lust for conquest," Premier Benito Mussolini told the United Press in an interview discussing the domestic and international position of Italy.

The premier, in reply to a question, emphasized that there were good reasons why foreign nations should not become alarmed by Italy's avowed desire to increase her population and train her manpower even if only for defense against aggression.

"Man power is required for fuller exploitation of Italy's circumscribed land," he said. "These men must be strong and healthy to carry out their task. But we Italians are far from striving to satisfy a lust for conquest or to conquer. We seek only to recover from a sense of inferiority, acquired since the decline which followed the Renaissance."

The premier paused, then slowly re-emphasized the last sentence. "Do you understand?"

"We were recognized as a great nation at one time," he continued. "Once we were cited as models for mankind. Then we were taken ill. We suffered morally and physically. We grew weak."

"The Renaissance saved us the first time but we had a relapse. Once more we began to decline. By the time the war of 1914 had arrived, a war for which Italy paid the price of 600,000 dead, we were once more on the upgrade. But losses incurred during the war weakened us again until nine years ago we were on the verge of chaos. Then came Fascism."

"Fascism in effect realized that, unless treatment for Italy's ills was altered radically and rapidly, the worst might happen. But to save the patient under such circumstances was difficult and an ungrateful task. Sick people often are unreasonable and irritable, nervous and suspicious. They balk at taking their medicine, particularly at a period during which they begin to feel strength returning and realize that convalescence nears."

"Fascism triumphed over the worst. Italy's health returned. Italy is tired of being gazed at and admired for her beauty, but simultaneously looked down upon. She is exasperated at hearing the constantly repeated legend, according to which the Italians are not fighters—a legend which the Italian heroes of the Napoleonic wars should have destroyed forever. She recovered and this time intends to be strong enough to resist any possible relapse, internal or external."

New Invention

H. D. ROCHEVILLE, famous aircraft designer, sent his newly-perfected plane, equipped with an adjustable wing, through its paces in a successful series of tests. The new wing actually changes its shape, shifting from the flat high-speed type, to the thick, high-lifting power type at the will of the pilot. The secret of the radical design is a system of adjustable ribs.

the city. Cooperation between the police and the district attorney's office was assured and it was announced patrolmen would become active in breaking up the racketeering gangs, while Craine's associates would handle complaints from citizens who have been threatened by gangsters unless they pay tribute. The district attorney already has fifty specific complaints.

"It would appear from these complaints," Crain said, "that the racketeers have their hands in everything from the cradle to the grave—from babies' milk to funeral coaches."

Merchants already are beginning to defy the racketeers, Crain said, and cited the instance of one prominent business man who refused to pay tribute. "That man said he considered himself 'marked' and now carries a pistol as well as having police protection."

Federal Attorney Howard W. Amell in Brooklyn disclosed today that the grand jury had been investigating rackets since September.

Brentwood Man's Death Held Suicide

MARTINEZ, Nov. 22.—Two sets of fingerprints found on the .22 calibre rifle which was used to kill Arthur Holden, husband of Dr. Holden of Brentwood indicated that he fired the fatal shot with the gun turned upside down, police said.

That fact was established today when E. O. Heinrich, Berkeley criminologist made his findings known. The investigation was ordered when Contra Costa county authorities learned that a quarrel between the wife and husband in which the son became involved preceded the fatal shooting.

Dr. Holden declared she and her son were in the house when they heard the shot, and authorities were convinced of the truthfulness of the statement but decided to hold the investigation to clear up any discrepancies that might arise.

citizens are being held in a military prison awaiting court martial as deserters or defaulters, according to an article published in a newspaper in this city today.

The men are being held in the prison at Rouen. Only names of two of the six were learned. They were, Alexander Dumoulin of Detroit, and Leon Bogen of New York. All of the six were said to be naturalized citizens and since the United States has no naturalization treaty with France the embassy is powerless to act in the case.

Girl Jailed In Portland Suicide Probe

ing in police court on murder charges was postponed until Monday, with indications that it might be delayed longer.

Ever since the young society matron, mother of two children, died of a stab wound over the heart in the kitchen of the apartment of Miss Loucks on the morning of November 12, police have questioned nearly two score witnesses in an effort to determine if Mrs. Bowles died by her own hand or was murdered.

A legal battle between counsel representing Bowles and Miss Loucks and District Attorney Myers preceded the questioning today of Betty Feitel, 13 year old half sister of Miss Loucks.

The child corroborated in part Miss Loucks' story that she had gone to the Glencoe school following Mrs. Bowles' death and told Betty that the young matron had committed suicide with a bread knife. It was to check on this statement that the child was interrogated, over which the defendant's counsel objected vigorously.

Deputy District Attorney George Mowry said Betty's story did not contradict statements of Bowles and his sweetheart but neither did it corroborate them entirely. The investigation of the suicide

Location... Transportation... Industrial Acreage!

Richmond has them all.

Only the aviator, looking down from a great height, sees Richmond's location as it is. Viewed from an altitude of several thousand feet Richmond is seen midway between the Golden Gate and a rich back country. It stands with the bay and ocean at its front door, the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys at its back, in close proximity to more than a million population. As a manufacturing and distribution center its location is supreme.

In transportation Richmond is favored with two transcontinental railroads, a highway system that connects it with the whole state, and deep water with unrivalled shipping facilities. By rail, water or road, goods can be moved with economy and expedition into and out of Richmond.

Richmond fares well with acreage for the largest and smallest industries. Added to its already ample facilities in this regard, comes the new tract made available through the project of the Santa Fe and associated interests in the Ellis canal district. This dredging and filling program is now well advanced and when completed will create 200 acres of new acreage, close in and served by ships, trains and motor trucks.

Richmond, with location, transportation and plenty of room for new industries, looks confidently to the future.

SAVANTS STUDY MUSSEL POISON

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—A further investigation of the occurrence of poison in mussels and clams of the Pacific coast which led to the illness of 62 people and the death of four in July and August, 1929, has just been concluded by the University of California Hooper Foundation for medical research.

In a report made public by Director Karl F. Meyer, three research men, Assistant Prof. H. Sommer, and L. Jenkins and R. Stohler, graduate students, state that the Pacific coast mussel contains minute traces of a poison throughout the year, but that it is apparently only dangerous during the months of July and August.

Cannot Locate Poison Source

Attempts to locate the source of the poison met with little success. Tests of other shell fish in the vicinity of the mussel beds failed to reveal poison. Exposure to one sun was discarded as a cause of the poisoning because mussels taken under water were often more toxic than those found above the mean water level. Many other fields of observation were recorded, including oil formation, influx of floating detritus, unusual odors, luminescence, turbidity and color of the water, changes in temperature, etc., without establishing any definite correlation.

It was found that toxic mussels could often be distinguished from harmless specimens by superficial examination. The poisonous specimens have a typical but faint cyanide odor, and a larger, softer hepato-pancreas gland which is often of a greenish color, either lighter or darker than the normal digestive organ.

The toxic period coincided in general though not exactly with the spawning season. The factor which makes mussels poisonous sets in south of the Golden Gate and travels north. Analysis of the microscopic, floating animal life of the ocean in amounts up to 3000 liters failed to show any signs of poison.

Study Poison Formation

Attempts were made, also, to produce poison in mussels by exposure, suffocation, etc., at various temperatures, in and out of sea water and fresh water without result except in the case of treatment with artificial illuminating gas which caused only a slight formation of poison. Cyanide in the water produced no effect on the toxicity of the mussels, although it was again demonstrated with strychnin that mussels can absorb and store a poison.

Father Blocks Marriage Move

BERKELEY, Nov. 22.—Police were asked in a telegram from C. D. Hillman, multi-millionaire real estate operator to stop the proposed marriage of his son, Charles K. Hillman, 19 with Doris I. Norton, 18.

Hillman now residing in Seattle in his message said his son did not have the consent of his parents to the match. When the intention to wed was filed Hillman and his fiancée were accompanied by Mrs. Bessie Olive Hillman, the boy's mother, who approved the match.

The senior Hillman is still smarting from the effects of a $500,000 damage suit filed by Stanley Hitchcock, Oakland detective, who charged the former had alienated the affections of his wife, the daughter of the defendant. Hitchcock also charged that he had been locked up as insane at the direction of Hillman.

It was indicated that Hillman did not want to get in-laws into the family who might be the source of further trouble.

Charles Hillman, now a sailor in the U. S. Navy met his prospective bride while she was employed in a Seattle tea room.
